I almost called for the guards today, when I saw Filberto walk into my shop. Has it been so long? It feels like it was just last week we heard about what he did. However, he swears he's clean now. He wanted to talk about a Tuning Fork that was made long ago by the renowned inventor, Gregory Ironhand. I gave him no information about the ore needed to manufacture a reliable tuning fork. If he seeks out the gargoyles in Ilshenar, it won't be on my advice.

I think I will contact his brother in Minoc, to see what Filberto is up to.
